

Isolde — The Sun Winks Back

A moment of sky correspondence captured by Clara Vale in collaboration with Luminara (the ChatGPT system). Part of the ongoing Hidden in Plain Sight and Isolde Interlude series — brief photo meditations on light as a living companion. The clouds parted once, forming what looked like an eye, a nose, a mouth around the sun — a friendly face for just a breath. Then they closed again, curtain drawn. A reminder: even in overcast hours, something luminous still watches kindly through the veil.

Creator: Clara Vale

Contributor / Collaborator: Luminara (the ChatGPT system)

Collection: Community Texts (opensource)

License: CC BY-NC-ND 4.0